

MURDER TRIAL FOR CAMPBELL

Confessed Slayer and Thief
To Be Arraigned Next
Wednesday.

William Henry Campbell, colored, confessed murderer of Mrs. Gertrude Harrison Mann, Washington music teacher, who has also confessed to attacking Mrs. Bessie Gleason, Miss Louise Simmons, and Miss Mary Saunders, and numerous pocketbook snatchings and house-breakings, will this week face a Federal warrant charging him with first degree murder.

He will be arraigned before Judge Hardison in Police Court Wednesday. In the meantime authorities are postponing action toward the release of Louis Randall, colored, serving forty-five years in Atlanta for the Gleason and Simmons assaults, and Forrest Eaglan, colored, serving twenty years in the Maryland State penitentiary for the Saunders case.

Will Probe Confessions. Montgomery County officials, who handled Eaglan's prosecution, likewise will make no move toward the latter's release until they have ascertained the truth of Campbell's confessions and established its truth.

"The charge of first degree murder against Campbell will be presented to the grand jury this week for action—and I believe quick action will be had," said United States Attorney John E. Laskey yesterday.

Campbell was brought from the jail yesterday for arraignment, but because of the absence of certain witnesses Assistant District Attorney Ralph Given asked that he be committed without bail on a house-breaking charge.

Laskey to Go Slow. The government authorities, it was announced, are not going to look upon the trial of Campbell and Randall as miscarriages of justice until they are absolutely sure that Campbell is really guilty. Both the District Attorney's office and the police department are busy trying to prove or disprove Campbell's thirty-five-page confession.

"There is no occasion for the District Attorney's office to take the issue of securing the release of Louis Randall and Forrest Eaglan, even if Campbell actually committed the crimes for which these men are now serving sentences," said Laskey.

Parties interested in Randall will first have to get together and present a petition to the Department of Justice for his release on the ground of innocence. Then the Department of Justice will refer the matter to us. Until that time we can do nothing in the matter.

"As for Eaglan, this office has nothing whatever to do with that case. That is up to the Maryland authorities."

Up to Police Now. "I am not prepared to comment on the genuineness of Campbell's confession relating to the attacks on Mrs. Gleason, or Miss Simmons, or Miss Saunders. That is a matter for the police just now."

"All that was prepared to do in any case is to see that the grand jury gets the evidence against Campbell for the alleged murder of Mrs. Mann as soon as possible."

Assistant District Attorney Paul R. Cromelin, who prosecuted Louis Randall for the alleged attacks upon Mrs. Gleason and Miss Simmons, expressed the opinion yesterday that from the evidence in possession of the government at the time of the trial, he believed Randall to be guilty.

Randall's Attorney to Wait. Samuel Gusack, counsel for Louis Randall, will not apply to the Department of Justice for a pardon for his client until the Federal and local authorities are fully satisfied that Campbell is really guilty.

The attorney intimated that he may take some action in the case tomorrow and interview both Laskey and Cromelin.

Notwithstanding Campbell's confession that it was he who attacked and attempted to criminally assault Miss Mary Saunders, for which crime Eaglan was convicted in the Circuit Court at Rockville, Md., former and present Montgomery County officials conversant with the case insist that Eaglan's guilt was established beyond the slightest doubt. They declare that Campbell's statement is a pure fabrication.

Peru's Navy to Be Reorganized
By Group of American Officers
Led by Commander F.B. Freyer

(Public Ledger Service.)
Uncle Sam, as the result of the war, hopes to supersede John Bull as the schoolmaster of the world's navies. Hitherto the British navy, thanks to restrictive regulations in the United States navy, has been the one to which foreign governments have turned for naval organizers.

On June 5 of this year Congress authorized the President in his discretion to detail officers of the naval service to assist the republics of South America, upon their request, in naval matters. The American officers so detailed to accept office and emoluments from the governments which engage their services.

The first mission to be sent to South America under the new law will go to Peru. It will leave for Callao on August 25 and will be headed by one of the most distinguished young officers in the United States navy, Commander Frank B. Freyer. Commander Freyer reported for duty to the Ambassador of Peru in Washington, Senor Pezet, this week. It was largely due to Senor Pezet's influence that United States naval officers were selected to reorganize the Peruvian navy. Chile recently engaged a British mission to reorganize her fleet. Peru and Chile are something more than rivals. Each looks upon the other as a potential enemy, so that the activities of the American naval mission at Callao and those of the British mission at Valparaiso will be more or less of a competitive order.

The conditions under which Commander Freyer has been engaged by the President of Peru provide for his becoming senior to all officers of the Peruvian naval service. Commander Freyer, who is an Annapolis graduate, is a member of the bar of the District of Columbia, and during the past three years has held the office of assistant judge advocate general of the navy. Previously he had command of the battleship Oregon. His chief of staff in Peru will be Commander Lewis B. Causey, who, during the war, specialized in submarine work and until recently was gunnery officer of the battleship Florida. The two other members of the Peruvian mission are Charles G. Davy, formerly a commander in the United States navy, and Paul Fitzsimons, formerly a lieutenant.

Peru has a small but fairly efficient navy. The purpose of the American mission is to modernize it on the lines of the United States fleet. A miniature Annapolis is to be established among other things. The American officers who are proceeding to Callao are hopeful of achieving satisfactory results, mainly because of the fine naval traditions which the Peruvian nation boasts of.

Nuptial Feast Gets Cold While Couple Remain Far Away

(Special to The Herald.)
Frostburg, Md., Aug. 7.—The wedding feast was spread, forty guests were gathered, the parlor was ready with his book, and there was a plentiful supply of rice and old shoes—but the bride and bridegroom were not on hand.

This scene is laid at the home of James Neal Wednesday night. Bruce Miller, of Meyerdale, and Jennie Hostetter, of Finsel, had selected that date and place for their wedding, and notified all their friends to be there.

Parson and guests waited until midnight. A delegation was sent to the bride's home at Finsel, but that nothing could be learned of the pair. The supper had grown cold and the forty guests ate it in silence.

All was explained the next morning when a letter came from Miller stating that he had been unable to get away from work, and that the ceremony would take place at the same time and place that night. Guests were reassembled and the belated wedding took place.

800 Polish Orphans Saved As Reds Approach, by Two American Red Cross Girls

By HENRY WILLIAM FRANCIS.
(Washington Herald-Cross Atlantic Service. Special Cable Dispatch.)

Paris, Aug. 7.—Polish refugees arriving at Paris today describe the heroism of Miss Stella Matthews, of Minneapolis, and Miss Susan Rosensteel, of Freeport, Ill., Red Cross workers who saved the lives of 800 Polish war orphans in the orphanage at Bialystok, when the Bolsheviks captured the town.

When the guns of the invaders came into hearing of the town all its inhabitants were in panic. Refugees began fleeing down all the roads. As they passed the school grounds they cried to the children to join them, but the two American women kept their presence of mind and avoided a panic. They led the children safely to a cattle train and succeeded in embarking them all on it, so that not one was missing when it arrived at its destination in Warsaw.

The situation was complicated by a shortage of cars and engines, but Maj. H. S. Diehl, of St. Paul, came to the rescue and impressed a gang of Poles, who moved the loaded cars on the main line onto side tracks by hand power and then coupled the cars in which the children were on the last train leaving for Warsaw.

The children were boarding the cars at one end of the town as the Reds were entering at the other.

U. S. LEAGUE REFUSAL 'SIN,' SAYS GENERAL

(Special to Washington Herald.)
Baltimore, Aug. 7.—The failure of the United States to join the league of nations is a "sin and a shame," according to Brig. Gen. John M. T. Finney, chief consulting surgeon of the A. E. F. who returned today from a government mission in Europe. Gen. Finney declared the United States owed it to her allies, to civilization, and to her own self-respect, to join the league without delay.

SOLDIERS BREAK JAIL; 1 DEAD; REST RETAKEN

Leavenworth, Kan., Aug. 7.—A break for liberty by several prisoners of the United States Army Disciplinary Barracks here tonight resulted in the death of one prisoner and the recapture of all others participating in the break. Mural Hawkins, 19, was killed.

"Red blood, rich in iron is a never failing source of strength and endurance," says Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.) New York, and the Westchester County Hospital. "Many a man is losing the strength, health and enthusiasm of earlier years simply because there is not sufficient iron in his blood to send it, pure and red, flowing through his body, rebuilding wasted tissue and renewing energy and force."

"It is the man who keeps his blood filled with organic iron—like Nuxated Iron—who is building within in himself the strength that towers in an emergency; a strength that endures; a strength that masters obstacles and clears the way to success."

Nuxated Iron is prescribed and recommended by physicians and is now being used by over 4,000,000 people annually to build red blood, strength and endurance.

It is dispensed by all good druggists.

Entire burden of the Red Cross canteen work, which has become primarily emergency work since the war, has fallen upon the shoulders of three Washingtonians. Mrs. Frances A. Connelly, Miss Virginia Gallier, Kenesaw apartments, and Mrs. L. S. Wolfe, 1630 Irving street northwest, in the absence of the other six of their co-workers.
